

There are few things more amazing than effective leadership. The hallmark of great leaders is the mark they leave on those they lead. For some people, it comes naturally. For most, it is a conscious and deliberate discipline. Regardless, it is the most important role to ensure progress. It requires introspection, knowledge of leadership styles, and an understanding of the situations requiring leadership. If you choose to be a leader, or have it thrust upon you, play to make a difference, play to be remembered, play to win.